THE BROTHERHOOD OF SOULS.

All men to me are brothers, all souls I count
my kin;
For, be it robed in righteousness, or be it
steeped in sin,
Each human soul God's image bears, each
shares the love divine,
And the most hopeless must respond to influence benign.

I must not judge another; it pertaineth not
to me;
Nor scorn the vilest, for the Lord alone the heart can see;
I must not stand aloof from sin, fearing to be
defiled,
For such an act becometh not my blessed Father's child.

No human soul has ever yet the crown of victory won
By keeping virtuously apart, the evil world
to shun;
The victor comes before the throne, arrayed
in purity,
"Unspotted from the world," wherein are dens of infamy.

Although the way to heaven is a narrow way
indeed,
It does not lie within the line of any special creed;
The Spirit is not bound to walk in man's appointed way,
He leadeth only humble souls to the light of perfect day.

It is my creed that in the faithful following of Christ,
All that forbids expansion of the soul is sacrificed;
The warping forms and cramping fences man
has built around
The Infinite, by Him shall all be shaken to the ground.

When Time's last mighty billow shall to shores immortal surge,
The Infinite from out the finite then shall quite emerge.
"Traditions of the elders" shall as morning
mists depart,
When Love shall reign eternal in the universal heart.

Then sink all creed in brotherhood, for love
alone shall last,
Swift-winged, immortal, speeding to the future from the Past,
Where all the lovely blendeth into one harmonious whole,
And love supreme is written on the Omnipresent soul.

A Solemn Thought.

By J. H. Merrett.

"It is appointed unto man once to die."

Not a very pleasant subject for an afternoon tea party, it is true, but a more profitable theme than is usually discussed all the same. Just to think, of all the people we meet —whether our friends and loved ones in our own small circles, the noisy crowds of children at school, the busy throng of men and women hurrying along the streets on business or pleasure bent—not one of them can escape this great final appointment! The rich and the poor, the haughty and the humble, the prince and the pauper, the merchant and the customer, the master and the scholar, all are equal in this one respect—all must die.

Death is no respecter of person or position. The wealth of the rich man cannot release him, the strength of the strong will fail him, the wickedness of the wicked will not deliver him! No favorites; no exemptions;
no substitutes; no escapes! If consumption does not claim you as its victim, some burning fever may bring you low. If you escape disease, an accident will cut you off suddenly, probably without even a chance to say one last "Good-bye." In the midst of supposed good health death's messenger may make one loud, last knock at your heart's door. He enters the mansion of the high and the home of the humble, the office of the business man, the store, the workshop, the theatre, the school, the church—no place is too sacred for his entrance, no law can restrain him, no lock or bolt can keep him out.

When he speaks all must obey, when he strikes none can resist the blow. "For all flesh is as grass, and all the glory of man as the flower of grass." "There is one event to the righteous and the wicked; to the good,
and to the clean, and to the unclean." "Man
dieth and wasteth away; yea, man giveth up the ghost, and where is he?"

And if this be all true, then "why should the spirit of mortal be proud?" Death is death, no matter in what form it comes. And when a man is once dead, he is awfully dead,
as far as the world is concerned. What difference is there between the millionaire dying
in his mansion and the pauper in the poorhouse? Or the proud, haughty society woman and the poor, hard-working washer-woman whom she often despises? Supposing one man has a large funeral, with funeral march, and a long cortege of his prominent townspeople, while another poor fellow receives only the scant ceremony of a pauper's interment! Both are alike dead, and will be alike soon forgotten. Truly life at best is vanity. Its pleasures are fleeting; its honors are vain; its treasures are moth-eaten and full of decay; and man himself is only as a dream of the night, whose journey from the cradle to the grave is as the shooting of a star across the midnight sky.

Boast not, vain man, nor on thy strength rely,
For "it is appointed unto all men once to die."
In that dread hour when strength will fail,
Thy wealth will mock when death doth thee
assail;

The honors of this world will flee away,
And thou wilt be "a thing of yesterday."

But unto wisdom now thy heart apply,
Seek ye God's face, and on His love rely;
He will your many, many sins forgive,
Teach you to die by teaching you to live,
And in that hour your song shall be:
"O death, where is thy sting? O grave, thy victory?"

Evolution of the S. A.

THE WEST INDIES.

The Salvation Army in the West Indies was generally well received, although it must not be supposed there was not a good supply of difficulties to be overcome. There were obstacles placed in our onward march of a very aggravating and peculiar nature, and it was only by the faithful toil and consistent living of a few devoted Salvationists, who held on year after year, that we ever gained a foothold, and that the blessed soul-saving work was begun which lifted those who had been fettered with heavy chains of sin out of their fearful condition and made them into bright and useful warriors of the cross.

Until recently there has been great financial depression in the Islands. It was not only sugar and rum that failed, but other products as well. Dye-woods, such as logwood, so a writer informs us, and fustic, did not really pay to "chip." Coffee was hardly worth picking. A time was when a barrel of dried berries might be purchased for about $2.40,
which is hardly one-fifth of the proper value.
Large bunches of bananas might be had for 2c., and oranges were sent to this country at a positive loss. The conditions have not helped the Army, which, with other organizations, has been sadly handicapped by the straitened financial situation. But these things, happy to say, are now of the past, and our present and future outlook is of a pleasing character. We have at present about 148 officers, commanding 83 corps and outposts,
and a splendid work is being done in the different Islands, which we will later particularize.

The financial side of things has greatly improved, as will be gathered by the fact that $1,970 was recently raised by the Army in its last Harvest Festival effort.

As elsewhere, the good work of the S. A.
has not been confined to itself, but its aggressive work has had a good effect upon other Christian organizations, which it seems, for the greater part, had lapsed into indifference.
Missions are now periodically conducted by nearly every denomination, open-air meetings are held, soul-saving work carried on, and many of our Army methods are adopted by others, even to a Self-Denial Week by the Episcopalians.

In the West Indian Islands and British Guiana—which together form our West Indian Territory, with Headquarters in Kingston, Jamaica—a few whites are to be found amongst us, but the work is almost entirely in the interests of our colored populations, who, it is true, have a great many places of worship within their reach, but very many of whom are, nevertheless, in urgent need of salvation. In Jamaica we have now fifty-eight corps, located in all parts of this lovely island.
The poverty of the people is still so extreme as to make it difficult for them to maintain the officers from their own resources; but a steady improvement in this respect is taking place.

In no part of the world, probably, has the Army been able to demonstrate its value to the poor so much as in these Islands. Here, as stated, its people have been in many cases literally penniless, and yet it has none the less succeeded, with a very small grant from the central funds, in establishing corps that carry glad tidings regularly into every corner of the land, and which have, mainly by free
gifts and free labor, provided so many humble meeting-places in the villages.

There have of late been established in Kingston a Shelter and a Prison Gate Home, by means of which, during the past year, seventy ex-prisoners have got into situations, and thousands of the most needy have been helped upwards. Here and there we have a few white officers, but our officers have been raised principally from amongst the colored people.

Next in importance to Jamaica comes Barbadoes, where there is a population of two hundred thousand people, crowded into a comparatively small area. We have here ten corps and thirteen officers, and some idea of the extent of our influence, and of the nature of the work, may be gathered from the fact that more than 120 persons sought mercy at a day's open-air meetings held by Commissioner Cadman, when recently visiting our comrades in those parts, near one little town.
Throughout all these Islands, indeed, enormous and generally reverent crowds can be gathered out of doors, and it is no uncommon thing to see patients kneeling in the ring to seek salvation.

Corps have also been established in Trinidad, St. Lucia, and Grenada, and the other small Islands will each, in turn, be included within the sphere of our action.

In British Guiana we have not only a very satisfactory work among the African, but amongst the Hindoo, laborers, of whom many already have been led to the Saviour. This Hindoo element is to be met with in other colonies also, and is generally despised, if not actually hated, by both whites and blacks.
But in our Army the coolies find true friends,
who refuse to know any distinction of race,
and who proclaim to all alike the same Gospel
that would unite all men in bonds of love and mutual sympathy. The leadership of our West Indian work has, within the last year,
been taken over by Lieut.-Colonel and Mrs.
Rauch, who have had a long experience in South Africa.

No life overflows with joy that has room
only for its own cares.

It takes less sense to find fault with all
than to be fair with all.

When the universe ceases to be a riddle it becomes a revelation.

THE GOOD OLD DAYS.

A STORY OF THE OPENING DAYS OF THE ARMY, BY S. U. B.

WE often speak of the "good old times" of long ago, and of the glorious and soul-inspiring seasons we spent together when the Army first opened fire in this country. We remember vividly the monster marches, the crowded halls, and the sweeping times of salvation, when scores knelt at the penitent form; and after the long prayer meetings we all used to get the "glory" and dance in praise to God at the conclusion of a victorious Sunday's campaign. It seems the easiest for us to remember the things which are pleasant, very often forgetting entirely the hardships and the trials which accompanied them. Yet it is the most usual thing in the world for conflicts to precede triumphs, and may we not conclude that the past victories won were worth winning, and that the battles were well fought. We think so. Thus to refresh our memories we have gleaned from an officer, once known as Capt. M. A. Cowan, some particulars of early struggles and accomplishments, which are well worth chronicling, and to some of our present-day officers and soldiers may be quite a revelation of the stiff fight of the days of yore.

Capt. Cowan was not born in a palatial residence in a select locality in a large city, but in a small village called Cartright, near the illustrious town of Bowmanville, Ont., and at ten years of age moved with her parents to Palmerston. She was a farmer's daughter, and, fortunately for her, developed by hard work and plenty of fresh air into a good healthy specimen of womanhood.

In 1883 the Army "opened fire" in Palmerston, and the event was the gossip of the town. Our Salvation Army heroine was little interested in the Army's advent until one day, while down town, she casually came across a female officer, doing the most unseemly thing in the world—carrying and pounding a big drum, assisted in these heroic efforts by a Lieutenant, who beat vigorously a tambourine, while both with their shrill voices accompanied the melodious (?) strains of their respective instruments with singing—

"Jesus is a Rock in a weary land,
A Shelter in the time of storm."

The future Capt. Cowan looked upon the two for a brief moment in great disgust. The foolishness of two girls marching alone down the main thoroughfare of Palmerston, with a drum and a tambourine, and singing such a song, was too ridiculous altogether, and the first impression Miss Cowan received was by no means a good one.

Mrs. Adj. Williams, that now is, was the officer in charge of the corps, and was in those days "holding forth" in the Town Hall. Curiosity induced the disgusted one to venture inside the meeting hall the next night. With the officers sat a few converts on the platform, whose testimonies, with the earnestness of the officers, partially removed the erroneous impressions of the night previous. The services were then regularly attended, and daily the subject of our sketch began to realize more fully her need of Christ, until she surrendered to God, in June, 1884.

Different to a good many converts of the present day, Marguerite A. Cowan had such a high opinion of the privileges of a Salvationist, and so thorough was her appreciation of their goodness, that it was some little time before she could muster the necessary courage to ask the Captain if she could become a soldier, so fearful was she that she would be refused. But she wasn't, of course. Soldiers were scarce in those days, and already the Captain had seen that Sister Cowan possessed the "right spirit" and those qualities which made the true good in those Salvationists of long ago. Becoming a soldier of the Army, in those early days especially, meant a good deal of cross-bearing. In this case parents were exceedingly opposed to their daughter connecting herself with the Army, which made matters extremely hard at home:

however, Sister Cowan faithfully carried her heavy cross as a soldier for eighteen months, when the Divisional Officer paid a visit to Palmerston, who succeeded in getting Sister Cowan to offer herself for the work.

Those were not the days of delays. New openings were being made all over the country, and the need of officers was very great, and marching orders came very quickly for Candidate Cowan to proceed to Kincardine as a Cadet. Meeting her mother on the street one day, just a short time before she left for her appointment, Cadet Cowan told her of her purpose, who, since her daughter joined the Army, had entertained a very hostile attitude toward her, and replied, "If you go, all right; but remember you will never cross my doorstep again." To this the daughter replied, "When my father and my mother forsake me, then the Lord will take me up." (Ps. xxvii. 10.) "Well," came the mother's reply, "if you can stand upon that you can go." Two weeks later Cadet Cowan left for was Sunday. A loaf had to be borrowed from the baker, with a promise to pay for it as soon as possible, and a diet of bread and milk sufficed for Easter Sunday. Frequently did this lassie-Cadet carry armfuls of wood from the barracks to the quarters, and vice versa, when she could not afford to have supplies at both places. This was not only physically very trying, but a very humiliating experience.

The District Officer of course was not aware of the desperate condition of things, or he would not have permitted the Cadet to remain. A Post Office Order reached her one morning for sufficient value to pay her fare to the anniversary meetings at Toronto, where the Cadet received fresh inspiration and returned to the attack!

Shortly after her return a telegram was handed to her with the glad information that a Captain and his wife were appointed to take charge of the corps, that the Cadet would in the future be known as Lieutenant Cowan, and was to proceed to Wingham, which at that time proved to be another "Hard Go," and if possible worse than Kincardine. The Army had preceded the Salvation Army, and unfortunately the officer who had been in charge had misbehaved himself by thieving, therefore the people had little confidence in any new movement; but by dint of perseverance, living godly lives, and house-to-house visitation, averaging 100 families each week, the respect of the people was secured, twenty-eight souls were saved, and fourteen soldiers placed on the roll, not appearing perhaps on the surface a very brilliant accomplishment, nevertheless, taking into consideration the bitter feeling with which these pioneers had to contend at the onset, one not to be despised.

London II. followed Wingham, which was another heart-breaker in those days. Many a night this lassie-Lieutenant persisted in carrying the big drum on the march, and sallied forth accompanied by an aged couple. The crowds which congregated in the barracks were by no means the most inspiring, and it was a pretty tight squeeze to keep out of debt. Twenty-five cents' worth of wood could only be purchased at a time, and luxuries to eat or grand clothes to wear, were out of the question. So much the appointment mentioned. She was met at the depot by the Cadet who conducted her to the quarters, where she was greeted by the Captain. The home was scantily furnished, and things generally did not look very cheery. The Cadet then at Kincardine was farewelled shortly after, then the Captain left, and Cadet Cowan found herself the commanding officer in charge of the Kincardine corps with two soldiers, one a fisherman and the other a butcher, two sincere, godly fellows. But the fight was stiff, and the people did not receive the Army kindly. The Cadet visited from door to door, but the occupants would not permit her to enter. The meetings were only attended by a few people, and the whole fighting force consisted of the butcher and the Cadet, except that three nights a week the fisherman would also be present. Finances were low—extremely so very often. One Saturday night particularly can be remembered when there was only five cents in the house. This was used by the Cadet to purchase a quart of milk, expecting that some more money would be secured in the meeting. But the people just then were not feeling generously disposed, and not a cent was put into the collection plate. Here was a desperate situation—no food for the morrow, which so that Lieut. Cowan well remembers a soldier bringing a chicken to the quarters, which was, as may be supposed, greatly relished. Typhoid fever brought a five months' stay to a close, followed by an illness of six weeks. Then came Wyoming, Lieut. Cowan being promoted to the rank of Captain to take charge. Another stiff fight was waged here, the Captain often taking the drum, and never being assisted by more than three comrades and the Lieutenant.

Yes, these were the "good old days" we hear so often talked about, and lasting good was done, but we must not forget they were the days of trial also.

The late Queen Louise of Denmark was a shy woman, who preferred a full inner life to a shining external one. She possessed in an extraordinary degree the power of "suggesting" to others without appearing to wish or will. Though masterful, she never appeared to seek for mastery in family or other matters, and she retained, to the last day of her life, her material hold on the hearts of her children and kin.

The War.

Vice-Admiral Togo, of the Japanese Navy, seems determined to capture Port Arthur. Two more attacks have taken place. In the first the Japanese endeavored to steer four old merchant vessels, loaded with stone, into the narrow entrance of the inner harbor, and there to sink them, in order to bottle up the Russian fleet. The Russian land batteries and the guns of the old disabled warship Retvizan, which lies in the outer harbor in a disabled condition, however, bombarded these boats, and managed to sink them before they reached the desired position. The Japanese claim to have escaped unhurt, while the Russians claim to have blown up one torpedo boat and sunk another.

The second engagement took place on Feb. 26th, when, after a heavy bombardment, some of the Russian vessels returned in a damaged condition.

On land the Japanese advance guard and the Russian cavalry have met each other at Ping Yang, in Corea, half way between the Yalu River and Seoul, the capital.

Vladivostok reports that a Japanese squadron has been espied, and appears to intend blockading that port.

Fears are expressed in Russia for the safety of Port Arthur. The commanding General has issued an order to inform his troops that he will never surrender, but fight till death. The Japanese are anxious to capture that important position.

A small Russian gunboat is in a Chinese harbor, where it intends to stay till the end of the war. The Japanese are trying to bring pressure to bear upon the Chinese to expel the gunboat.

Canadian Cuttings.

Immigration and railway officials are making ready for the spring rush of new settlers for the West. The opening is a little earlier this year. The first lot arrived on the steamer Bavarian at Halifax, and consisted of 444 persons. Five hundred more are expected on the Lake Erie, and it is estimated that before the end of the week 2,000 will be on the way westward.

While an employee of the Vancouver Power Company was walking from the tunnel on Lake Coquitlam, on a lonely road, he was suddenly attacked by a fierce beast, which sprang from the bushes and seized him by the arm. He was badly bitten in the struggle.

He escaped and ran to the city of New Westminster, a mile or so, and is now in the hospital for treatment. It was so dark at the time of the accident that he could not tell whether the animal was a lynx or a cougar.

Plans for a new university building at Ottawa, to replace the burned structure, are being considered.

A Cordage Company, of Chatham, was fined $360 and costs for selling "short" binder twine.

Fire at Bracebridge destroyed Mrs. A. E. Pelletier's residence, part of which was occupied by Mr. J. Warlow's family. A two-months' old infant of Mrs. Warlow was burned to death.

A pathetic story comes from Sherrington, Quebec, of two aged brothers, Edouard and Narcisse Beaudin, whose dwelling was burned, each returning to the building in search of the other, and both lost their lives in the flames.

Preparations are under way by immigration officials at Winnipeg to receive three thousand European immigrants. Six special trains will be required at St. John, N.B.

The Nottawa flour mill, at Collingwood, was burned. Loss, $10,000.

At St. Felicien de Roberval, Quebec, Mrs. Gagon and seven children were burned to death, their dwelling taking fire while they slept.

The Imperial Oil Company are making large reductions in their force at Sarnia, on account of the falling off of the supply of crude oil.

The Kingston Locomotive Works have orders for twenty-five engines for the Intercolonial and ten for the C.P.R.

U. S. Siftings.

One of the most extensive cave-ins that the northern anthracite coal regions has ever experienced occurred in West Scranton. It affected an area of about forty acres. There are about 200 houses in the district affected. Some are completely wrecked, others are out of plumb, while nearly every house in the territory is twisted to such an extent that the doors and windows cannot be opened. The cave-in was caused by the settling of the surface over the diamond vein of the Bellevue colliery of the Delaware, Lackawanna & Western Company. In many cases the depression is from three to four feet below the surface.

The United States-Panama Canal treaty was ratified at Washington and declared effective.

Three large departmental stores, at Rochester, N.Y., were destroyed by fire, the loss being estimated at $3,000,000.

International Items.

A cable from Lima, Peru, says that advices from La Paz, Bolivia, announce that the traditional treasure of the Incas has been discovered at Challacats. It amounts to $18,000,000. The discoverers are of various nationalities, and are quarreling over the treasure, although a legal contract exists between them as to the division. The authorities have interfered.

CHILD LIFE IN LONDON.

HOW YOUNG LONDON IS FED AND WORKED.

IN the Royal Commission's Report on the physique of school children in Scotland, Dr. McKenzie describes the physical examinations of six hundred Edinburgh children, taken from four different schools, a selection which may be fully said to be representative. The doctor states that of these six hundred children 423 were suffering from diseases of different sorts, whilst ten were suffering from deformities.

In Aberdeen, out of six hundred children examined by Dr. Matthew Hay, 274 were diseased, and twenty-one suffering from deformities.

It has been said by one competent to know, that if a similar Commission were to sit for England, their report would be fully as painful reading.

Defective Food.

Much of the physical degeneracy of children may be attributed to defective nutrition, and it has been estimated that as many as thirty per cent. of the school children suffer therefrom. This estimate is abundantly supported by the facts which are forthcoming from the children who crowd to our Farthing Breakfasts.

Mr. R. H. Sherard gives in the London Magazine some interesting information concerning the food of the children of the poor. Sir John Gorst, in a conversation with him, said, "I have a cousin who is a vicar in a village in Essex, and he tells me that the London children, who are sent down there by the Country Holiday Fund, refuse at first to touch the healthy fare set before them. They are accustomed to eat pickles, sardines, red herrings, and things of that kind, and won't touch meat and vegetables."

Something of the sort was experienced at Poplar last winter. Many of the children who were evidently suffering from lack of nutrition were tried with soup and meat. But it was no good; the basins were pushed aside three-quarters full. They greedily devoured bread and jam and tea.

Pickles and Brawn.

"In the Notting Dale district," according to Mr. Sherard's article, "the staple diet of the children is brawn and pickles. One pennyworth of brawn, and a halfpennyworth of pickles, form the daily dinner of thousands of children who, besides attending school, are working long hours—from thirty to fifty hours a week—in their spare time. If you walk down Latimer Road, for instance, at dinner-time, you will see forty or fifty children at any time waiting outside the pork shops to be served with their pennorths of brawn. The taste for this kind of food grows up with the children, and when they have left school, and have gone into the factories, they continue to feed themselves in the same way."

It is upon such unsustaining food as this that many of the young have to face the tasks of school as well as the long hours of their labor after school hours.

Long Hours of Labor.

How long these hours are in some cases may be learned from the fact that it has been given in evidence that some children have worked eighty hours a week in addition to going to school for twenty-seven and a half hours; while out of 1,448 children, in addition to school, 492 were employed under twenty hours a week, 413 from twenty to thirty hours, 446 from thirty to forty hours, 87 from forty to fifty hours, 10 over fifty hours. These cases are described as being absolutely typical.

Some idea of the nature of the children's toil may be gathered from the following—we again quote from "The London": "in the hands of the schoolmistress of St. Clement's School, Notting Dale, is the photograph of a little boy, who, by carrying heavy loads of china for an employer, has been literally twisted out of human shape. He is only the type of a very large class. We may take it that the loads that children are made to carry are of a weight exacting their extremest efforts; of this we have abundant proof. We hear of a slight girl of thirteen, who is found in a tin-plate works, carrying thirty-one pounds on her frail arms; of a grocer's boy who was dragged quite on one side; of a lad of eleven carrying heavy scuttles of coal from the top."

Unwholesome Conditions.

But the grocers' and other tradesmen's boys do bear their heavy burdens in the open-air; other hapless little ones are doomed to toil for long hours in ill-ventilated rooms amid foetid smells—at match-box making, paper-bag making, etc.

In the match-box making trade, the home workers are paid from 134d. to 244d. per gross for the smaller boxes, and 244d. for the larger ones. Each box consists of seven pieces, thus 1,008 pieces have to be handled and worked for the earning of say twopence. Vesta boxes with little pull tabs are paid for at 344d. to 444d. per gross. These consist of eleven pieces each.

The work is very mechanical, and children soon get accustomed to it. In one home there was a mother with four children busily engaged. They all went to school, and had to help as soon as they came out. One little chap of eight said, "I don't mind doing it, but I wish I didn't feel so tired." His weariness is not to be wondered at.—Social Gazette.

OUR EAST INDIAN LETTER.

Colombo, Jan. 14th, 1904.

Self-Denial Fund last year was Rs. 4,000, and the Lord helped the Territory to raise Rs. 4,500. Praise Him!

Commissioner Higgins visited us again on the 31st Dec. last, and spent about eleven days with us. The officers' councils were marked with Holy Ghost power, and the congregations at Kandy, Hewadiweia, Moratumalla, and Moratuwa I. corps beat all past record in numbers, since five souls came out for salvation at the Prince Street Hall.

Your humble servant has farewelled from Colombo, where he had been for the last fifteen years, and has been now appointed to take charge of Rambukkana Division, from the 20th inst.

Staff-Captain Samenatvera, who is just promoted to the rank of Major, is appointed Chancellor and the Editor of Yuddagosawa, the Singhalese War Cry. The new Major and his wife, Major Devya Jaya, were converted from dark Buddhism, and have faithfully served God for upwards of about thirteen years. They have, during their service, held severally and jointly very important appointments, and waged many victories for God.

The many good friends in Ceylon contributed to our Christmas treat funds very liberally, and have thus helped us to cheer those who were dependent upon the Army for their Christmas enjoyment. Capt. Grose, the live contribution to Ceylon's salvation from Canada, got up a nice Christmas tree for his class of juniors, and it was a source of very great encouragement for the children to continue coming to his class to learn of Jesus and His salvation.

The inmates of the Prison Gate Home, Rescue Home, children of village schools, and the officers' children, had their treat in their turn, and so helped the natal celebrations once more to be kept before the mind's eyes of all and everyone that are under the influence of the Army.

The juniors' prize distribution anniversary of Moratuwa I. corps was presided over by Commissioner Higgins, to see and hear whom a large audience were present.

My next address perhaps for many years to come is Rambukkana, Ceylon, where we reckon our soldiers, recruits, adherents, and converts by hundreds.—S. S. Perera, Major.

SEVENTY-FOUR SOULS IN TWELVE DAYS.

(By Wire.)

The Harmonic Revivalists are having stirring times at Napanee. Seventy-four souls came forward in twelve days. Meetings were characterized with divine power; Sunday's were the best yet. Twenty-eight souls was the total for the day. Barracks was gorged and crowds turned away. Twenty young men knelt at the penitent form. Our faith is high for a triumphant wind-up.—Silvis.

NOTES ON GENESIS.

Chapter XLIX.

Jacob Blessing His Sons.

Jacob was the last great patriarchal representative and possessor of the covenant blessing of Jehovah. His grandfather, Abraham, had been separated from his kindred and native land, and received the promise of the covenant of circumcision. Isaac was preferred, to the exclusion of the sons of Keturah, and he transmitted the prophetic blessing of the covenant to Jacob, thereby excluding and supplanting Esau. Jacob is now about to die, and the chosen seed are henceforth to be represented by twelve tribes, rather than by one great father. It was fitting, therefore, before this last great patriarch was gathered to his people, that the voice of prophecy should issue from his lips, and, magnifying itself above the blessings of the everlasting hills (verse 26), should disclose unto his children some things that would befall them in the last days. Israel will have no successor like himself, and the book of Genesis ends with the 'generations of Israel,' but the divine thoughts of this prophecy appear again in the blessing of Moses (Deut. xxxiii.), and various other prophecies."

Having bestowed his dying benedictions upon his sons, Jacob's heart turns to his fathers, to whom he is about to be gathered.

clares that he will provide for them and take care of them.

We may be sure that they were not slow to carry out the oath he had exacted of them, and that when they left the land of Egypt they took his mummy with them and buried him with his father. When the fetters of Mohammedanism shall be broken, and the tombs of Palestine reveal their contents, there is no doubt but that the remains of Joseph will be found in the tomb of Machpelah, with those mentioned in the closing verses of the previous chapter.

4.—St. John.

John, brother of James and son of Zebedee, was one of the earliest and also the youngest of our Lord's disciples, honored with the distinction "whom Jesus loved." His Gospel was written at the close of the first century or beginning of the second, long after the others had become well known throughout Christendom. He had all of them before him; he supplied what they had omitted, corrected false impressions produced by reading them, and gave the cue for their deeper interpretation. He directly refers to and corroborates much that they have recorded, but abstains from

INSTRUCTION DRILL.

What a Soldier Should Know About His Duties and Privileges, and the Teachings of the Salvation Army.

In order to improve his mind the Salvation Soldier should improve his ability to recollect facts, occurrences, and truths that are likely to be useful in the future. This is what is called memory.

Memory is a great gift. A good memory will be very helpful to him in talking, praying, writing, and doing good generally. Some have naturally a much stronger memory than others. A little care will do a great deal towards its improvement.

He should not try only to remember things, but to have them stored up in his mind, so that he can call them up when he wants them, on the platform, or in the open-air ring, when pleading with sinners personally, or when writing letters to his friends, or articles for the War Cry. It is, therefore, worth his while to be at a good deal of trouble to improve his memory.

To improve his memory he must: (a) Find it something to do. He must try and learn a short passage of Scripture off by heart every day, or anyway three or four texts per week. (b) When he meets with a good song, he should learn it. (c) He should neither burden his memory with trifles, or fill up his mind with rubbish. (d) He should not read a large quantity of things like newspapers, that he does not expect to try to remember. Nothing weakens the memory more than this.

To improve his mind he must exercise his judgment. By this is meant the ability which God has given him to reflect on the wisdom or folly, to distinguish between the rightness and wrongness of human conduct, and to form a correct opinion concerning it. He should seek to judge himself faithfully and truly, and those about him wisely and charitably. A good judgment is a very valuable gift.

A GLIMPSE OF GOD'S GLORY.

By a Staff Officer.

I saw the majesty of God! No, it was not a dream;

I was awake, and not asleep, when came this glory-beam.

When into my dark heart it shone it lightened up the whole—

Then filled me to the overflow, and satisfied my soul!

I saw the splendor of His face; I glimpsed His love and might—

But neither tongue nor pen can tell the glory of that sight!

My spirit shrank from such a scene; the self-life in me died;

Consisting of my will, my way, my manliness, and pride;

For no man can see God and live, and so I died to sin,

And all the doubtful little things that used to reign within;

Things that I never used to think an hindrance in my way

I realized as stumbling-blocks to be removed that day.

Now I have peace, yes, perfect peace; my mind is stayed on God;

And I have love, abundant love, to tread the path Christ trod.

The light of God now floods my mind; my eyes can farther see—

The fever of anxiety no longer worries me! Praise God! for He has sanctified, and made my dark heart white,

And granted unto such as me the spirit of the fight!

W. R. P.

The Israelites in Egypt.

There is a touching tenderness in the allusion to Machpelah and Mamre—to Abraham and Sarah, and Isaac, and Rebekah, and Leah. He would have his body repose along with theirs, as, also, he expected his immortal part would "be gathered unto his people" in Sheol. Thus the grand old patriarch calmly replaces his feet on the bed and breathes out his life.

◆ ◆ ◆ Chapter L:

A touching picture is here presented of Joseph's tender emotion. His love for his father was deep and fervent, and the magnificent funeral accorded to the remains of the old patriarch were due to Joseph's devotion, as well as his position.

In fact, the royal character of the funeral obsequies of both Jacob and Joseph form a fitting end to the history of the patriarchal age. No prophet, or prince, or king of Israel's line, even in the noontide glory of the Hebrew monarchy, was ever laid to rest with such pomp and splendor. The funeral ceremony was, with the Egyptians, an elegant art, in which they concentrated their religion and highest philosophy, and on which they lavished their taste and wealth.

On the decease of their father, Joseph's brethren feared that the anger of their youngest brother would break out against them. But the magnanimity of Joseph's kind heart soon assures them once again that he entertains no hard feelings against them, and detraversing the same ground. He only narrates one miracle which is common to all the Gospels (the feeding of the 5,000), but gives us four others peculiar to him—the changing of water into wine, the healing of the impotent man and one born blind, and the raising of Lazarus. While the events narrated by the Synoptists are mainly those which took place at Galilee, John's Gospel is almost wholly occupied with Christ's ministry in Judea, and one-third of it is devoted to the sayings and doings of the last twenty-four hours of His life. He omits all the parables given by the Synoptists.

Generally, his Gospel is rather a compilation of distinct dissertations than a continuous narrative. It connects the redemption of mankind with the creation by the same Source of Life. Its subject is: "The Eternal Word made Flesh."

Christ only wants us to be nothing so that we can do something.

You cannot make progress toward heaven in the pathway of sin.

PRACTICAL SENTIMENTS.

Sentiments are right and proper; without the fountains of sympathy the crop of good actions would wither and die. But sentimentality is to be shunned, for it is fruitless sentiment—a plant that flowers but bears no fruit. Our frontispiece is not an idle invention, it is an every-day truth. One half of humanity, in affluent circumstances, sings about Christian duty, the other half does it. Let us be on the doing side, for the danger of falling into mere sentimentality is always with us. The taking up of the cross is inseparable from duty; life is rough and real, and many an action glorified in song, and eulogized in print, looks different at the moment of real doing, and is more often the target for jeers and jests than for applause. But the Master is with us and urges us to lift the fallen, to save the drunkard, to seek for the unloved, uncared for, and despised, and bring them to Him whose grace can perform wonders of transformation.

THE ASSOCIATION HALL MEETINGS.

The Commissioner has now conducted two Sunday night meetings in the Y.M.C.A. Hall, and the effect has been electric. With comparatively little, but excellent, advertising, crowded halls have been secured, and the second meeting has even excelled the first one. The results have been in every sense gratifying, not the least of which is the fact that the call upon the Commissioner's strength is at the minimum. The Massey Hall would be

The Commissioner in Association Hall.

BUILDING AGAIN DENSELY PACKED ON THE SECOND SUNDAY OF THE CAMPAIGN—STANDING ROOM AT A PREMIUM—THE COMMISSIONER DELIVERS THRILLING ADDRESS ON THE GRAND MARCH PAST—TWENTY-FIVE SOULS SEEK THE SAVIOUR.

THE spacious hall of the Y. M. C. A. was again crowded to its utmost capacity on Sunday evening last, being the second occasion on which our beloved Commissioner has made a public appearance after her long and serious illness. It is generally understood that there is always present at any of the gatherings over which our Commissioner presides, great expectancy, on the part of the public as well as our own soldiery. This partly accounts for the beautiful and blessed results which follow.

Sunday evening, at the Association Hall, was no exception to the general rule, although it must be said at the commencement of the service, when the Chief Secretary lined out the first song in the absence of the Commissioner, who had not yet put in an appearance, there could be distinctly seen on the faces of many the stamp of disappointment, and the question, Is Miss Booth going to be present? But the shadow soon lifted as the Commissioner made her way to the platform while the magnificent brass band was helping the singing of the good old song, "What's the news?"—the song we have sung again and again upon many occasions when the Almighty has descended in convicting and converting power, both in the Old Land and on our own Canadian shores. It was being taken up with great heartiness and spirit when the Commissioner stepped to the front. She was more fragile and weak than we would have liked to have seen her. There could be no mistake that she had not quite regained her usual strength, and that she looked decidedly slender, but comparing her physical condition with what it was a few weeks ago there swelled within our hearts a note of praise for the goodness of God to see her sufficiently recovered in health to permit us to have her presence and receive inspiration and blessing through her forceful words. It was an intensely sympathetic and appreciative audience that greeted her.

The song is ended. Brigadier Southall in no uncertain or hazy fashion took us right up—up to the throne of grace. We forget the over-taxing; other available halls seemed to have some objectionable features, but the Association Hall has proved eminently satisfactory. The construction is such that the hearers seem within easy reach of the speaker in any part of the building, and the manifest sympathy and keen attention of the audiences have made the Commissioner feel at perfect ease. We are exceedingly grateful for the returning health and activity of our gifted leader.

TEMPLE TRIUMPHS.

We were delighted to have Brigadier Southall, the new Trade Secretary, with us for the Sunday morning and afternoon meetings. The Brigadier was accompanied by Mrs. Southall, the Women's Social Secretary, who spoke in the afternoon at some length, with eloquence and power. The holiness meeting was powerful and exceptional. The Brigadier's addresses were much appreciated by the splen-materialistic, for a time at least, and remembering only our needs, open our hearts, make his prayer ours, and are lifted and blessed. The sinner is held up to the mercy of Jehovah and the prayer concludes, the blessings having already descended by a present and an answering God.

Little "Snow-flake" and Pearl are introduced by Lieut.-Colonel Pugmire, and as usual these two adopted music-boxes of Miss Booth's are greeted heartily. Pearl sings sweetly, "Let Jesus come into your heart," a tune from the band, when the Red Knights of the Cross, who accompanied the Commissioner some little time ago on her western tour, when over 150 souls cried to God for pardon, sing sweetly, "Think, O Jesus," to the music composed by the Commissioner. It was a fitting moment for our leader to come to the front. She attempted to apologize for her weakness, but it could scarcely be heard amid the spontaneous, hearty hand-clapping. The Commissioner loves, we know, the people of Toronto, but not more than the people of the Queen City love her. "The Grand March Past," was the subject chosen. Choosing her text from the imagery abounding in the passages of Revelation, she reviewed the various conditions out of which the regiments of the redeemed hosts entering heaven in triumph on white horses have come, and what made them conquerors in the battles of life. Every emergency, every difficulty, every temptation was considered, but there was a way of triumph for all who sincerely sought the victory. Appealing to those who had not yet found cleansing in the fountain of Calvary, she reasoned with the doubtful, sympathized with the hard-pressed, and struck conviction to many a conscience. It is useless here to attempt to put into this brief report the Commissioner's words, or describe the manner in which they were received. We were unable to catch the bursts of eloquence for which our leader is noted. In cold type the hallowed influences cannot be carried. A report, however correct and complete, must necessarily be shorn of the real happenings of a blessed and profitable meeting. Therefore we conclude by saying once again our blessed Lord came to the aid of the Commissioner, He came and spoke once again to the sinning hearts, and again at the mercy seat saw we twenty-five souls redeemed—washed in the blood of the Lamb.

did crowds which had gathered in spite of the inclement weather.—W. C. Arnold.

BRIGADIER PICKERING'S TOUR.

(By Wire.)

Tour continues a success. Our party divided on Sunday, visiting both the American and Canadian Sault Ste. Marie. We had magnificent meetings, enormous crowds, and mighty out-pourings of the Holy Ghost. Eighteen souls sought pardon, mostly splendid cases. Finances have been excellent. The cinematograph lecture netted one hundred dollars. A big crowd is expected to-night for second lecture. Party unitedly forging ahead.—Brigadier Pickering.

EDITORIAL NEWSLETTERS

The relinquishing of the oversight of Trade affairs by Brigadier Horn, and the assuming of the duties of Trade Secretary by Brigadier Southall, was made the occasion of a very interesting hour or so with the trade and printing employees over a cup of tea in the Council Chamber, presided over by the Chief Secretary. Speeches were made by the retiring Trade Secretary, Brigadier Southall, and Colonel Jacobs, when congratulations were scattered profusely at the progress which had been made, and much pleasure experienced when particulars were given concerning the up-to-date printing plant the Army is at present in possession of.

Ensign Arnold, who has been the Territorial Cashier for a couple of years, has had a change, and becomes the Accountant at T. H. Q., while Ensign Arthur Morris, who for several years has been in the General Secretary's Office, becomes the Territorial Cashier.

Twenty-five Probationary-Lieutenants were made into full Lieutenants last week.

The subscriptions toward our Montreal property now reach over $12,000. Brigadier Turner is hopeful of raising $20,000 by the end of the summer.

A good property has been secured for Salvation Army purposes in Smith's Falls, in a central locality, for $1,700. There is already a building on the lot suitable for the needs of the Army at present.

The alterations to our building in Quebec are nearly completed, having cost $2,000, the larger part of which amount has already been raised.

Staff-Capt. Creighton, the East Ontario Chancellor, has been seriously ill for the past six weeks. The Staff-Captain, we are pleased to say, is at present much improved in health.

The Peterboro Band has now thirty-three members.

The new barracks at Sarnia will be opened by the Chief Secretary, assisted by Brigadier and Mrs. Hargrave and Major Rawling, on March 12th, 13th, and 14th. Ensign LeCocq is working hard to make this a big success.

Capt. Bristow, after faithfully and efficiently filling the post of Cashier at the Western Provincial Headquarters, has nobly jumped into the gap at Neepawa. He has been appointed to the command of this corps. Already the Lord has abundantly blessed his labors (also those of Capt. Glover, who is assisting), and there is a very marked improvement both in the crowds and finances, and in the general tone of things around.

Winnipeg bandmen are getting a fine room fixed up in the Citadel for their use.

Lady Sarah Sladen and Mrs. Turner are doing a short tour in the East Ontario Province, visiting Kingston, Napanee, Deseronto, Belleville, and Trenton. They report real successful times at Kingston and Napanee.

S. A. Will Contribute $5,000 to Bible Society.

The 100th Anniversary of the formation of that noble undertaking, the British and Foreign Bible Society, took place in England on Sunday, March 6th.

One hundred years ago, on a gloomy December morning in 1802, a handful of anxious men gathered in an upper room overhanging the Thames, and formed a Society for the purpose of preserving, translating, and circulating the books of the Old and New Testament throughout the world.

In 1804 the Bible was current in about forty living languages, understood by two-thirds of mankind. In 1904 it can be read, more or less completely, in 430 languages and dialects, which include all the chief vernaculars, and be understood by seven-tenths of the human race.

About a month ago the Society in question approached the General with a view to the Salvation Army co-operation in the effort which they are making to raise the sum of £250,000 in order to clear themselves of debt and put them in a first-class financial condition. The date, Sunday, March 6th, however, happened to correspond with that which the Army had selected for Self-Denial Sunday; and while it was felt that many of our soldiers and friends would, naturally, desire to do something to aid the work of that excellent Society—for no organization in the history of the world has been more devoted to the truth of the Scriptures, and more really anxious to emphasize its claims, than has the Salvation Army—yet to make two appeals at the same time would be to court failure for both.

The General, therefore, decided to pay over from this year's Self-Denial Fund the sum of $5,000 toward the amount which our good friends, the Bible Society, are endeavoring to raise.

DISASTER ON STEAMER QUEEN.

After suffering harrowing experiences from fire and storm, the steamer Queen, from San Francisco for Victoria, put into Port Townsend to report the loss of fourteen lives.

About 3:45 Sunday morning, while off the mouth of the Columbia River, fire broke out in the after saloon. The cause of the blaze is not known. The fire gained headway rapidly, and soon threatened to envelope the whole ship. The heavy sea meant death to any person sent away in the life-boats. Flames became more and more threatening until, when it seemed but a choice of death either by fire or drowning, Capt. Cousins ordered the life-boats launched. They were manned, and a number of women and children were lowered into them. Hardly had the boats been cast loose than two of them were capsize by huge waves. Those of the passengers and crew who remained on board continued their fight against the flames with increasing success until at 7:40 a.m. the blaze was brought under control. When it was seen that the danger from fire was past, Capt. Cousins recalled the life-boats, and their occupants were taken aboard.

FRANCE.

Commissioner Cosandey has held encouraging meetings in Paris. At Rue Auber there were nine souls, and as a result of four days' campaign at Montparnasse thirteen.

A few weeks ago a Republican Guard attended a meeting in Rue Auber, Paris, left his sword on the seat, and went to the penitent form. He got soundly converted, and will probably be enrolled as a Salvation Soldier.

Eastern Province News.

FREDERICTON REVIVALS.

There is quite a revival on here. Souls are getting saved every week. Ten at the mercy seat on Sunday. The crowds are almost double what they were at the beginning of the year. Our junior demonstrations at Gibson, Marysville, Nashwaakia, and City, were very successful. Total income thirty-three dollars.—Jas. Howering, Ensign.

THE REVIVALISTS.

The visit of the Eastern Revivalists to Moncton, being owned and blessed of God, was one of great success. In spite of the cold weather the attendances were very good. Night after night as the crowds gathered at the barracks the truths of God were brought before them in such a way that at the close of the services twenty-six precious souls were brought from darkness into the light of God. Not only were the meetings beneficial to the sinners, but many of God's people were strengthened as a result, and fifteen re-consecrated themselves to God's service, while six sought the blessing of a clean heart. The finances were excellent, being $41 above the average.

The good work under Ensign and Mrs. Carter, who have been laboring here for some months, is going ahead with rapid strides.—H. C. B.

CONGRESS STRING BAND.

Leaving North Sydney we proceeded to Louisbourg for two nights. We had an excellent crowd and good collections. Everything was up to our expectations. The duets, trios, and selections were much enjoyed, and also the tomahawk song by Capt. Riley. Both Colonel and Mrs. Sharp spoke very beautifully and with the force of the Spirit. The first night's meeting was good, but the second night was even better than the first, the people no longer were very much pleased with the program, and have spoken in the highest terms of the band.

Glouce Bay was our battleground for the week-end. Sunday's meeting was a musical festival, and much interest had been previously aroused, so that long before the meeting time the Citadel was crowded to the doors with enthusiastic people. The full choruses by the band were well liked, also the address by Mrs. Colonel Sharp. Everybody enjoys her addresses, so full of counsel, warning, and spirit. We believe that much good was done, and much interest was awakened for the Sunday's meetings. Beginning Sunday with the knee-drill, we had a glorious time. The small hall of the Citadel was crowded for holiness meeting, and God's Spirit still lingered with us. Lieut.-Colonel Sharp read the verse, "Follow peace with all men." Very effective was his preaching, and at the close we had fourteen souls kneeling at the altar of God to give up their all, to do the will of God. The afternoon service was a crowning time. There were no less than eighty-eight comrades on it. When Ensign McElheny, the hard-working and popular officer in charge, came here a few weeks ago only eighteen men were present. The crowd was so large that for being jubilant over an increase of seventy. The inside meeting was an enrolment of about thirty-five recruits, and a soul-inspiring sight it was, too. After the enrolment we had a prayer meeting, in which we enrolled them beneath the colors, he got them to each one take hold of the flag somewhere, which was quite a feat for such a number, who grasped it in very few, only to touch it, and then to catch a little of the good old Army flag, the flag which has led us on to victory. After God's blessing was asked, Lieut. Smythe sang, "I'm glad I'm a salvation soldier" which was the sentiment of all hearts, from the Colonel down to the newest soldiers. Mrs. Sharp delivered a grand address, and much of the power of God was displayed, although no soul gave in to the power of the Holy Ghost, which was of much interest. With a crowd of newly-enrolled comrades, the famous Glouce Bay band, and the old soldiers and troupe, a fine open-air was held, and after an old-time song and dance, as we called it all day, the Citadel was crowded, even the aisles and all available standing room were occupied, also the door was left open, and a crowd had to stand in the snow and wind, the fire warriors. Some of them were of the blessed time inside. The string and brass bands played and the words spoken and the songs sung were all directed by God. Colonel Sharp read from the Word of God, and the words were seasoned with wisdom and driven by the power of the Holy Ghost, and after a well-fought prayer meeting we closed with four penitents kneeling at Jesus' feet, where they are sure to find forgiveness.—S. E. Crossman.

Deep Conviction.

Calais, Me.—Since last report God has been with us and souls have been saved. Sunday was a day of blessing. In the holiness meeting two backsliders sought the Saviour, and the afternoon and evening services there was deep conviction. Lieut. H. Walters.

Thirty Started for Heaven.

Carleton, N.B.—Since coming here God has rejoiced our hearts by working in a mighty manner upon the hearts of the unconverted, and also drawing us nearer to Himself. Over thirty have started for heaven, and over half of the number have taken their stand for God and the Army, and give promise of being blood-bought soldiers. Over thirty have had remarkable cases of conversion, having been deep-dyed sinners, and some are soldiers of the early days, A beautiful spirit of unity exists between soldiers and converts. Our meetings are well attended, great interest is manifested by the friends, and many new faces are seen from week to week in the throngs. We give God all the glory and rejoice to be used as instruments in His hands of rescuing the perishing.—Macdonald and the Saved Brother.

Souls Saved—Much Conviction.

Chatham, N.B.—We are having splendid meetings, led on by Ensign and Mrs. Parsons, assisted by Lieut. Barnard, who has recently come into our midst, and six souls have lately started on the straight and narrow way. Conviction is seen in all parts of the hall. The fire of the Holy Ghost is burning, and we are believing for greater victories in the near future.—Obediah Never-Quit.

Eighth Anniversary.

Eastport.—Since last report God has wonderfully blessed us, and three have knelt at the cross for pardon. On Thursday, Feb. 18th, we celebrated the eighth anniversary of the opening of this corps by having a supper and sing-song meeting, which was a success in every way. We are going to trust in God for greater victories in the future.—Henry Dorman.

United to Win.

Stellarton.—Capt. M. N. Melkie and Lieut. McMasters have just taken charge, and God is blessing us and giving us victory. On Sunday night one soul sought salvation, and others were convicted, and great blessing to us. On Monday night our meeting was led by two officers especially appointed for the occasion, namely, Capt. (S.-M.) Kelly and Lieut. (C.-C.) F. Kelly. There was a large attendance, and the service was at an awfully high level. We believe that prayer and faith will bring the victory. Crowds generally good; finances O. K.—F. K. Cor.

A Week of Blessing.

St. George's.—Since last report we have had the joy of seeing many souls at the mercy seat. Although at times the fight seems tough, we still press on to victory. On Thursday night we had a service of song entitled, "Home, sweet home," which was a great blessing to us. On Monday night our meeting was led by two officers especially appointed for the occasion, namely, Capt. (S.-M.) Kelly and Lieut. (C.-C.) F. Kelly. There was a large attendance, and the service was at an awfully high level. We believe that prayer and faith will bring the victory. Crowds generally good; finances O. K.—F. K. Cor.

A Week of Blessing.

Truro.—During the past week God has been blessing our work. Lieut. McMillan has been here, and the joy of seeing five take their stand for God, among the number being one who at one time was a blood-and-fire Salvationist and a good help to the corps. On Sunday night we had with us the officer from the Londonderry, also a number of soldiers. The meeting was very interesting, and enjoyed by all present.—Blanche Robertson.

FOUR DAYS' CAMPAIGN AT VANCOUVER.

We have just closed a successful series of meetings lasting four days, and Lieut. McMillan was pronounced as the master of ceremonies. This campaign was prefaced by a census meeting on Friday evening, at which a lot of corps business was dealt with.

Saturday night the band was on hand in good time, to add interest to the welcome march and meeting. Inside had gathered a splendid crowd. The Brigadier was at his best, and had rapt attention from his address. His message was of spiritual restoration was the visible result of this meeting.

"How to be holy," was the advertised subject for eleven o'clock Sunday morning. Isaiah xxxv, was read, and explained by the Brigadier. Our offering in the net found five who were willing to step into the way of holiness. We had a grand meeting in the afternoon, which had to be curtailed somewhat owing to the Purge Mass being being held in the City Hall, at which meeting the Brigadier had been invited to speak. We marched up to the crowded hall, and felt truly proud to see so many citizens of Vancouver packed together to take the word for purity and morality. The Brigadier was the third speaker, and spoke to this point, his hearers best appreciating their endorsement to what he said by conspicuous applause. The Brigadier was referring to the subject in question, which was a great surprise to many. The S. A. band led the singing at this meeting. We adjourned at 6 p.m., and started from the hall at 6.45 for the open-air. After the opening song inside, Lieut. Hay led in prayer. Ensign Hurst and Sister Lewis sang very sweetly together, then the Brigadier took hold, with the S. A. band. God was wonderfully with us. And the large crowd listened until the last word was said. Then came the invitation to the unsaved, when three precious souls very wisely accepted salvation.—Halley.

Monday was a night of music, when an impromptu program was given, and was much enjoyed. The bandmen, twelve in number, were also commissioned by the Brigadier to read to the crowd. A song was called upon for a few words, then the Brigadier followed with some kind remarks on the band's development, and farewelled with some good, solid advice for our future salvation warfare. God bless him.

The Staff-Captain asked for an expression of appreciation from the soldiers and friends of the Brigadier's services to the corps and to the crowd. This was taken up by a hearty hand-clapping of the entire house. The C. O. read a report of the three days' meetings, which was as follows: Nine seekers for salvation and satisfaction, over 100 attendances, the six marches; between six and seven hundred persons attended the inside services, and the finances were excellent. We concluded this splendid campaign by singing, "God be with you till we meet again."—A. Goodwin.

PROVINCIAL REVIVALISTS.

We have just closed three weeks' revival in Mont. God came and blessed our efforts with seventeen souls, many of whom will become good soldiers. Our crowds and finances were good. The last night we had a social, which brought in $30.

Adj. and Mrs. Dowell are in charge and are doing well. This is an interesting place for the Army, as it is the largest copperfield in the world. Aunt Ellen ministered to our needs, and made things very pleasant for us. We shall not forget the kindness shown us here.

We are now at Great Falls, which is in charge of Capt. Moore and Lieut. Graves. Our faith runs high for souls.—Adj. Nelson.

PROVINCIAL NOTES.

Since the New Year has been ushered in the P. O. has conducted District Councils at Kingston, Belleville, Peterboro, and Montreal, meeting nearly all the officers and a great number of the soldiers. The councils have been made a source of rich blessing, and were much enjoyed by all present.

The Chancellor, Staff Capt. Creighton, has been having a severe cold for some time. For weeks he has been laid aside from the front of the fight. Although at the time of writing he is much improved, he is still confined to his bed in the hospital. His condition has been the subject of the most anxious difficulties in the head, necessitating a very critical operation. We are full of hope that he will soon be able to resume his duties again. Prayers are requested on behalf of the Chancellor.

Peterboro band now consists of thirty-three players. Thirteen new instruments have been purchased from International Headquarters, and are giving good satisfaction. The account of the presentation has been well reported in the Cry. Our comrades are in good spirits and are not only planning to become efficient players, but more zealous in their interest for souls.

A new property has been purchased in Cornwall. The site is right in the heart of the city, and will mean a new lease of hope and life to our comrades here, who for the past years have been struggling on amid exceptions and difficulties. The new property has secured operations will commence this spring.

Capt. Coy. of Smith's Falls, is making good progress in collecting money for the property that has recently been acquired in this town. Six new comrades were added to the corps on a recent visit of the P. O.

The Montreal Property Fund is gradually creeping up. The total amount of money subscribed to date is $12,000. Staff Capt. Moore is hoping that this sum will have reached much more substantial proportions during the next few months.

Lady Sarah Sladen, accompanied by Mrs. Brigadier Turner, is visiting for a few days in this Province, prior to her returning to England. Lady Sarah is much pleased with what she has seen of the Army in this country.

The Jones Sisters have been doing very good service in spite of the severe weather. An experience they will not soon forget was theirs in connection with travelling from Montreal to Burlington, when their train was stalled in a snow-bank for twelve hours. Passengers were called upon to shovel snow into the water tank, as this was the only means of moving water for the engine. Finally the fire went out, and for seven hours they had no heat in the car. The Jones Sisters are now in the St. Lawrence River District, and after which they visit the Belleville and Peterboro Districts, before returning to their home.

The Harmonie Revivalists are now at Niagara. Their work during the past few weeks has been considerably handicapped owing to the severe weather. Ensign Owen has been somewhat under the weather, but has now improved.

Capt. Hoole is still in the hospital here in Montreal and sends the prayers of her comrades.

LADY SLADEN AT KINGSTON.

Although perhaps you have not heard from the old Limestone City for some time, yet we have by no means been asleep. We have enjoyed a successful campaign of five weeks, conducted by the Harmonie Revivalists, in which some good cases of conversion took place, and our soldiers were greatly benefited.

Last Saturday, Sunday, and Monday we were blessed with a visit from Lady Sarah Sladen, of England, accompanied by Mrs. Brigadier Turner. The meetings were times of blessing. Lady Sladen's Bible readings found a response in many people's hearts, and on Sunday night three precious souls sought salvation.

Monday night Lady Sladen had been announced to speak on the subject, "Why I Became a Christian." It was a thoroughly good sermon, making us all feel it was God's will she should be a Salvationist and her choice to do His will. Everybody was well satisfied. Finances were good, and at the close three souls were found at Jesus' feet.—Cub.

Lantern Service.

Belleville.—Since last report we have seen many souls saved. We had Ensign Edwards with us for the week-end. On Saturday night a good crowd attended the lantern service. Sunday's meetings were times of blessing to all. The hall was filled at night. We are revivifying for souls.—Mitchie.

Provincial Officer's Visit.

Cornwall.—We have had our worthy Brigadier with us for a week-end, and God did wonderfully bless the meetings. One soul sought salvation Monday night, and on Sunday night one dear brother, who had been a backslider for a long time, returned to God. The Jones Sisters have just completed a six days' tour here, which was enjoyed by all who heard them. An enrolment of recruits has also taken place.—S. M. Kirkwood.

Increased Interest.

Montreal I.—God has been blessing Adjt. and Mrs. Kendall's efforts in a revival amongst His followers. Our soldiers' and holiness meetings are inspiring them to our souls. The week-end meetings closed with four seeking pardon. To God be all the praise. The special holiness meetings are times of interest, and we have increased attendances. Our Saturday night meetings are on the up-grade. Soldiers are turning out in good numbers to give God the glory. We are glad to hear that Ensign Creighton is improving, and we are waiting to welcome him back in our midst.—Pat and Mike.

Seven Surrendered.

Ottawa.—On Sunday, Jan. 31st, at the holiness meeting, we had the joy of seeing a backslider sister return to the fold, also at the evening service four souls surrendered, and found pardon. The following Sunday night three recruits were enrolled, the ceremony being conducted by Ensign Smith. Sgt. Major Nether and the Smith spoke, saying that to be faithful to their vows, after which Bandmaster Oliver soloed accordingly. Ensign Thompson then took up the subject, "What and Where is Hell?" which he had previously announced, and brought to light some deep thoughts and definite facts from the Scriptures, dealing forcibly on the subject. There was a large gathering of people present. The Thursday night following two souls yielded to the teachings of the Spirit. On Sunday Lieut. Allen forwarded from Ottawa to return home for a short time, owing to some circumstances. We are sorry to lose him, but pray that she shall soon return to the battle's front again, where she is so much needed.—See A. French.

A Veteran of the Civil War.

St. Johnsbury.—Sgt. Major Proctor gave us the good news that they had nine out to knee-drill on Sunday morning at the outpost, and that he had secured the Peace Baptist Church for a meeting on Wednesday night. God has indeed blessed our corps and outpost, and during the past three weeks five souls have sought salvation. Among the number was a man of seventy years of age, who served in the Civil War. It is going to spend the rest of his life fighting sin. Another man, who has been under conviction for some time, has also taken up his cross, and is marching in our ranks. On Saturday night four held up their hands for prayer, and others have requested the prayers of the comrades. Our all-wise Bandmaster, Bro. Roddick, is expecting to increase the number of bandsmen. Although this has been a hard winter, and the Corps has had to stand alone, yet God has helped us, and there is every indication of a good work being accomplished through the Army in St. Johnsbury.—S. F. Correspondent.

Smith's Falls Barracks, with Capt. Coy in Doorway.

Central Ontario.

A Wanderer's Return.

Kingmont.—Since last report we have had some very stormy, cold weather, which has caused a decrease in the crowds, but God is with us, and we praise Him for bringing one wanderer back to the fold last Sunday night in our meeting at Niagara. We pray that many more shall soon return to God.—Gladie and Jordan, C.O.s.

Five for Salvation.

Meaford.—Within the last two weeks we have had the joy of seeing five souls come to God for salvation. Others are under conviction.—V. S., for L. J.

Moving Pictures.

Newmarket.—On Tuesday evening, the 16th, Brigadier Pickering gave an address on the work of the Salvation Army in different parts of the world, also on the life of the late dark boot Tucker. The Brigadier was a forceful and interesting speaker, and his address contained much information. Accompanying the same were views of buildings owned by the Army and moving pictures, which were very interesting. The Town Hall was not quite full on account of the evening being very cold, but all present were greatly pleased. The singing of Capt. Russell captivated the crowd. We have recently seen two wanderers return to the fold, having come back after ten years of backsliding. Capt. Bone is getting the soldiers to work, and we are having a victory. See. Thirtet sent for that lesson on Sunday afternoon. We have received Brother Simmerson back to our corps.—Cold Chills.

An Interesting Drive.

Orangeville.—In spite of storms and intense cold the joy of Jesus' love burns brightly in our hearts. A short time ago a dear comrade, living a few miles out, sent for us to visit her. An old soldier volunteered to take us in his sleigh, and in spite of "pitch holes," etc., the drive was very enjoyable, but coming back at night we found that we had had a collision with another sleigh, and one of the officers was heard to utter this prayer: "O Lord, take me home again in peace, and I'll never come this way again." Oh, that this might be the day of the backslider! During the past week four precious souls have sought the Saviour. Hallelujah!—Hieroglyphics.

Cereals should be emptied in their proper receptacles of tin or glass, and closely covered to prevent insects getting in. Coffee should go immediately into an airtight canister in order to keep its flavor. Dried fruit should be put into a cool, dark place, and salt, soap, and cheese into dry places.

Newfoundland News.

Six Backsliders Return.

Exploits, Nfld.—The past fortnight has been a time of power and blessing. God is showing Himself strong on our behalf, and we have had the joy of seeing six backsliders return to the fold. The soldiers are in earnest about perishing souls and our faith is high for the Siege of Hell. Our meetings are times of blessing.—Lieut. Pilley.

Climbing Higher.

Scilly Cove.—This week has been one of power and blessing. On Thursday night conviction was stamped on many faces, and at the close of the meeting two brothers sought and found pardon. Our private meetings are also times of blessing. God is revealing Himself to us and we are "climbing higher up the mountain."—L. Hillier, Lieut.

Gloriously Saved.

Tilt Cove.—Sunday night was a time long to be remembered. The soldiers and officers were all on fire for God and souls. After singing and prayer, a poor backslider rose from his seat and came to the cross, where he was gloriously saved.—Herbert Dicks.

Ten Brought to Christ.

Trout River.—On arriving here, after a long and tiresome journey, we found things looking dark, but God was wonderfully helping us during the past few weeks, and has answered our prayers. We can rejoice over ten precious souls being brought to Christ, some of whom have taken their stand under the flag.—M. Noel, Capt.

The North-West.

The Prayer was Answered.

Medicine Hat.—Last Wednesday night was the best soldiers' meeting the writer has ever attended. The Lord came very near and blessed us, and His prayer was being offered for a comrade the Spirit of the Lord visited him in his home, and the prayer was answered. Our comrade, Bro. Smister, is in the hospital, but we are glad to hear he is progressing nicely. We also miss another comrade, Bro. Sivan, who has gone west for a month or two. Sunday night last we had a glorious time, and one brother testified that he had been made right by the blood.—Mayflower.

Our Indian Missions.

The First Indian Wedding.

Douglas, Alaska.—Two weddings and four soldiers enrolled is not so bad for one night, but in the native work we often do a great deal of good. This was the first Army wedding conducted here among the natives, and of course the whole tribe turned out to see the performance. The schoolhouse was nicely decorated and everything was going on in true Indian Army style. Rev. Mr. Peterson, of the Methodist Church took a prominent part in the meeting, and enjoyed it very much. He is a real friend to the S. A., having seen his working mission, and is always glad to come and give his testimony. This ceremony was conducted by our worthy D. O. Adjt. R. Smith, who is by this time a regular professional hand at marriages and enrolments. On Sunday night we opened up our meeting house. Hitherto we have held meetings in the "Friends" schoolhouse, but now we have a "home, sweet home" of our own. Some of the natives from Juneau came over (about twenty of them) and we had a splendid time, with our soul in the fountain and about six dollars collection. Monday night God's presence came very near, and five more came to the mercy seat. Douglas corps' motto is "Onward," and by the help of God we are going to do our best. Already some very hard cases have been soundly converted, and have by their daily lives proved the reality of salvation. The Army spirit is working all over on these lines. We are crying "Send us some leaders." The harvest truly is great, but the laborers are few. May the missionary spirit awaken those who are at ease in Zion, and want to work amongst the heathen. A noble field cannot be found. Perhaps God is calling you now; if so, obey.—E. Jubin, Lieut.

Veterans for the Open-Air.

Port Simpson, B.C.—We are still fighting, the flag is still flying at the masthead. Despite the continuous rain-storms and mighty rushing winds, we raise our battle-cry as we march the streets and stand seven times a week in the open-air. Our soldiers are veterans for the open-air stand. The people gather round to hear the story of the cross. We have good attendance and attention, yet it is hard to get any person to surrender. One great drawback to our work is that the people move so much. At present most of them are away. Fishing, hunting, and logging have the employment. They pick up their belongings and men, women, and children all move to the woods, which leaves it very lonely in the villages on certain occasions. Yet the grace of God is sufficient for them. We are glad to see that they are praying, working, and believing to see many brought to Christ who are now in sin's broad way. Our faith looks up to God. He is able.—J. Gosling.

ADJUTANT JAMES ADAMS GONE TO HEAVEN.

The Chief Secretary Conducts Impressive Ceremony in Temple Auditorium, Where an Exceedingly Large Crowd Gathered.

The sufferings of Adj. J. Adams are over. He passed to his eternal reward at 7 a.m., Monday, Feb. 22nd, without a struggle, in the presence of his dear wife, Staff-Capt. Miller, intimate relatives and friends. His death at the time was quite unexpected, as at his request he had been lifted out of bed and placed in a chair a short time before to ease his position, and expired a moment or two after he had been comfortably placed in bed again. But his end was peace. He had fought as a good soldier of the cross faithfully and well, and as hard as his limited strength the past few years permitted. Now he reigns with Him on high, and receives the "Well done" of his Lord.

It was a sorrowing and heart-broken group that mingled their tears with those of the bereaved at the home at Lippincott Street on Wednesday, for a short service, conducted by Lieut.-Colonel Pugmire, previous to removing the remains to the Temple for the funeral service proper.

At half-past two the large Temple, not including the gallery, was crowded with a sympathetic audience. The Staff Band occupied the platform and in slow time began to play the "Dead March in Saul," while the procession of mourners, headed by the Chief Secretary, made its way to the platform.

Lieut.-Colonel Pugmire sang the "Home-land," and tributes to the holy and useful life of our departed comrade were paid by Staff-Capt. Miller and Mrs. Adj. Attwell, while the Chief Secretary comforted our hearts by explaining and reading the Scriptures. The service was exceedingly impressive. At its conclusion a long procession of Salvationists formed on Albert Street, and to the strains of the music marched toward Mount Pleasant Cemetery, where the remains of our dear comrade were laid to rest by Lieut.-Colonel Pugmire, in the Army plot.

Adj. Adams was an officer of nearly twelve years' standing, and had filled many positions of usefulness. Early in his career he was brought to Territorial Headquarters and placed in the Financial Office, having abilities which qualified him to look after accounts. He had after important duties in connection with the Trade Department, when, in October, 1896, he was sent to the Eastern Province, where he took charge of the books and acted in the capacity of Cashier. He was recalled to the Territorial Headquarters in 1898, and with exceptional ability discharged duties in the Trade and Financial Departments up till a little over two years ago, when his health was so exceedingly poor as not to permit him to shoulder heavy responsibilities; nevertheless, he would persist, as far as his strength would allow, coming down to the office when he felt able, and always with a cheerful face, until the dreaded disease, consumption, from which he suffered, forced him to remain at home constantly, and in his bed the greater part of the time. For some time it has been felt that if God did not see fit to heal his body Adj. Adams would not be long with us. Now we learn of his promotion. The memory of his patient life and soldier spirit will linger with us, and serve as an incentive to follow in like manner the footsteps of the Master.

The tender heart of Christ will know best how to give support to dear Mrs. Adams, the little girl, and the bereaved, and our comrades the battlefield over will not forget to pray for them all.

The Commissioner's Message.

My Dear Comrades,—

The occasion is too sad and too solemn for many words, but I cannot let the hour go by without sending a personal tribute to the memory of one who was your true comrade and my faithful officer.

Something of the consecrated life and victorious death of Adj. Adams is known to you all, but it is my privilege to be able to testify as his leader to that loyalty of heart and devotion of service, upon which I could always reckon for any claim of God's cause. His work as an officer was leavened by the single-eyed spirit in which it was rendered, and when bodily weakness forced him from the front, it was not for the pain he grieved, but for the inability to keep pace with the demands of active service.

The past three years God called our comrade to pass through a crucible of suffering. His patience amid weakness, his cheerfulness amid pain, his faith amid depression, has been an inspiration to us all. Sometimes it is within the mysteries of God's love, that those dearest to him, should have the largest share of the darkness and the spear. It may be that for such precious hearts, the immortal reward will be the richer and the glory more radiant.

Our comrade has gone to where the crowns are worn—that shining land which grows unspeakably nearer and dearer as our loved ones reach shores of peace. We are left upon the field. Life is still ours to live for Jesus, and for the lost for whom He gave His own.

Amid the shadows of this bereavement we must hasten our steps, we must renew our vows, we must thrust in more and more our best to win the world for heaven.

I bespeak for dear Mrs. Adams the deepest sympathy of all her comrades. I know she has such, and that together you will uphold her hands, and bear up her heart, till in the light of a fadeless morning, the sorrow is lost in joy, and the parting forgotten in an everlasting meeting.

Your affectionate Leader,
EVANGELINE BOOTH,
Commissioner.

PROMOTED TO GLORY.

SHE HAD NO FEAR.

Death has visited the ranks of the Salvation Army in Prescott, and claimed for its victim our faithful comrade, Annie Service.

She was converted seventeen years ago, and was led to become an evangelist two years after her conversion. Since that time she has been a true and faithful worker in the Salvation Army. She was one whom her officers could depend upon, and was always ready to lend a helping hand. Her life was an inspiration to all. The last three or four months of her life she had not the privilege of attending the meetings, on account of sickness in her home, but was always faithful. Her illness was brief. About three weeks after she was taken to her bed she was called home. She had no fear of death. A few hours before she passed away the writer, while visiting her, and she had many a tear. "Oh, no, Captain, none," was the answer. She closed her eyes for a few minutes, then opened them and repeated the verse, "My Jesus, I love Thee," etc., and continued—

"I have loved Him in life, I will love Him in death. And praise Him as long as He lendeth me breath. And say, when the death-dew lies cold on my brow, 'If ever I loved Thee, dear Jesus, 'tis now.'"

A short service was conducted at the home of Sister Mrs. Littlejohn by Capt. Gates and Lieut. Foley.—Capt. Gates. ♦ ♦ ♦

GONE TO HER REWARD.

Mt. Vernon.—The angel of death has for the first time visited the Mt. Vernon corps, and called to her home in heaven our dear sister, Mrs. Hobbs, nee Lizzie Buck, who has resided in Blair, Whatcom County, for the past two years. Many of her comrades here remember her sweet singing and bright spiritual testimony. She was beloved by all who knew her. We pray that God will indeed comfort the bereaved ones.—R. C. R.

G. B. M. NOTES.

WEST ONTARIO PROVINCE.

By ENSIGN J. T. POOLE.

Adj. Walker, of Windsor, never fails in securing a full hall for a special meeting. Our tickets had been well distributed, and many testified to the blessing received. At the close a young man came voluntarily out and gave himself to God. A number of merchants' boxes are being placed, and Bro. Virtue, the Local Agent, has set his mind and heart on creating fresh interest.

One of the characteristic features of Essex is the old-time, blood-and-fire Salvation Army spirit that the comrades manifest. The week-end was a real treat for all. There was deep conviction in every meeting. The holiness meetings were well attended, and at the close all manifested a desire to be used of God as never before. Some changes were made relative to the G. B. M. work. More boxes are being put out and more boxes transferred.

Mrs. Thomas, our Local Agent at Chatham, has been doing a good work. Mayor McKough is one of our best box-holders. This quarter W. W. Turner leads with $1.25, and the Central Drug Store comes second with $1.07.

If you have ever been in West Ontario you have no doubt heard of Bothwell. Failing to get anyone in our meeting here, we determined to go where the people were, and after getting permission from the hotel-keeper, we were soon at work conducting a salvation meeting in the largest room in his hotel. When the singing started a large number came from the bar and other parts of the house. The mistress of the house came down, and at her request sang a number of favorite solos. All present gave the best attention while I read from the Word of God. An offering of $1.25 was given, and when leaving we received a warm invitation to come again. A number of merchants' boxes have been sent in, and in the near future we expect to re-organize the Light Brigade here.

Another week-end was spent at Dresden. Capt. Thompson and Lieut. Duncan have just taken hold here. The crowds were good both at the inside and open-air meetings. Miss Kerby, the G.B.M. Agent, returns were over the average. I placed three more of our merchants' boxes, and left feeling confident that Dresden will to have the next quarter that has been done here for some years past.

When green vegetables come they should be put at once in the cellar or into the ice-box. Salads may be wrapped in damp cloth, then in a newspaper, and put in the air.

Flour belongs in a bin or barrel raised a few inches from the floor. While wheat flour may be obtained in quantity, cornmeal and graham flour should only be purchased in small quantities and kept in tin or glass.

Onions should not be left out, as they are great absorbers. Neither onions, bananas, nor muskmelons should be put in an ice-box with other food.

Tinware can be easily cleaned with ordinary dry flour rubbed on with a piece of newspaper. The article to be cleaned must first of all be well washed with hot water and soap, and when quite dry cleaned with the flour and paper.

To remove finger-marks from paint, rub with a cloth slightly moistened with paraffin. The marks will come off at once, and the paraffin will not injure the paint.

Iron chips, filings, or turnings should not be stored in a shop in wooden boxes. The oily waste which is not infrequently thrown among them adds to the danger of fire from the sparks from the sawings from the machine shop, if kept on hand, should never be placed over iron shavings. This mass of disintegrated iron is enough to incite heat and combustion. Iron and steel filings and turnings when mixed with oil, will ignite spontaneously after becoming carbonized.

One ought never to boil eggs. When they are boiled for three minutes they are called soft-boiled, but the fact is they are not actually soft-boiled. A part of the white has been made hard and indigestible, and the rest of the white and the whole yolk have really been made hot. An egg properly cooked is not cooked; it is simply cooled. "Put in the way to cook eggs: Put six into a vessel that will hold two quarts. Fill this vessel with boiling water, and, allowing closely, let it stand in a warm place for ten minutes. Remove the eggs. By this mode the eggs will be cooked equally well in every part, and the white will be soft and digestible. If one stands in the better mode, let them stand in the water ten or even fifteen minutes longer, but do not place them on the range. Serve folded in a napkin.

GREAT BRITAIN.

The Self-Denial effort in England takes place from Feb. 27th to March 5th.

Commissioner Howard, the Foreign Secretary, is visiting Scandinavia for a series of important business conferences. He will be absent from England about a fortnight. His tour includes Christiania, Stockholm, and Copenhagen.

Commissioner Railton is a little better. It will, however, be some weeks before he is able to resume active duty.

A Sunday meeting at Blackfriars Shelter, London, Eng., has once more been the scene of mighty victory. Forty-six men rose almost simultaneously and sought pardon, with the determination to embark on a new course of life.

An old lady was recently employed by one of our Slum Officers in England to scrub out the hall, and, the job finished, was rewarded by a shilling and a much-needed meal. The old lady's gratitude found quaint expression. Dropping on her knees, she prayed that "God would bless the dear Captain, and speedily promote her to Glory."

Some years ago a young Scotch girl passed through one of our Rescue Homes in England. She got saved, and eventually married a respectable artisan. Some weeks since, the Investigation Department, at Mare St., London, received a letter of enquiry from a firm of Scotch lawyers respecting this girl and her sister. An uncle had died and a considerable sum of money was due to each. In a very short time we were able to inform both sisters of their good fortune.

A White Star liner, leaving Australia on April 20th, will bring over to England from Australia, a party of at least thirty visitors to the Congress, which will probably include Lieut-Colonel Hoskin, Lieut-Colonel Kyle, Lieut-Colonel Gilmore, Mrs. Lieut-Colonel Unsworth, Brigadier Fisher, Majors Perry, Albiston, Bray, and Hammond. Included in the Australian contingent will be a talented musical troupe known as the "Biorama Company," which will doubtless give a good account of itself in the Old Country.

Thus the British Cry speaks concerning the International Congress in London:

"The tide of interest in the coming 'International' is rising not only among ourselves, but is being strongly felt wherever the flag flies. In New York and Toronto preparations are being made, on a worthy scale, to send a proper representation of every department of Army work included in these vast Territories. According to present information, we may expect the Congress to be reinforced by at least five hundred officers and comrades from these two sources alone. With regard to bands, I hear that the Toronto Staff Band and the Bermuda Band are among the musicians who are coming. Native parties are being got ready in India, Africa, Japan, and other countries. In short, international activity is a sign of the times.

INDIA AND CEYLON.

Amongst the destitute men who partook of the Army's hospitality at Colombo, Ceylon, Prison Gate Home recently were a young fellow from England, an educated Bengali, and a smart American. Ceylon seems to be a dumping-ground for "undesirables." Without influence or friends they find it difficult to get work. One of this trio has since found employment, however, in the police force.

JAPAN.

Colonel Bullard says that the eighth anniversary meeting of the work in Japan was undoubtedly the most successful we have yet held in Tokio. The hall was crowded, the attendance being composed more largely of influential people than before. The sympathy manifested also exceeded that shown on any previous occasion. One of the chief items was the marriage of Adj. Hamilton and Capt. Hammond—officers who are part of Australia's gift to Japan. The meeting closed with fourteen penitents.

Brigadier and Mrs. Duce, in spite of the outbreak of war in the far east, anticipate sailing from England for Japan immediately.

NORWAY AND SWEDEN.

In connection with the birthday of King Oscar II., of Sweden and Norway, two hundred men were given a good dinner at our Christiania Shelters. Our Norwegian Staff Band supplied the music while the men dined. In such happy conditions they had little difficulty in wishing the King "many happy returns of the day."

Sweden's Women Auxiliaries recently visited the Stockholm Children's Shelter, and gladdened the hearts of the little inmates with their gifts, which mostly consisted of articles of clothing made by their own hands at their sewing-machines during the year. There were also coffee, singing, speaking, and delights for the children.

The sixteenth anniversary of the Army's fight in Norway was celebrated by a meeting in the Clameyergade Hall, Christiania, in January. Three thousand people were present. The demonstration was a great success, and continued until 1 p.m. The following message was sent from the meeting to the General: "Officers, soldiers, and friends assembled in Christiania for celebration of sixteenth anniversary send the General affectionate greetings. We praise God for continued tokens of His favor and blessing, and are determined to live for the salvation of the people. We are deeply moved by your loving message and gift for Aalesund sufferers."

Fragmentary Thoughts ABOUT SEVERAL THINGS.

By Mrs. Blanche (Read) Johnston, Aux. Sec.

Self-Control.

It is courage under another form, and may be regarded as the primary essence of character. A Christian life must be pervaded by rigid self-discipline and self-restraint. We must eschew evil and do good to stand in the evil day, to walk in the Spirit, and having put on the whole armor of God, to stand. This is the embodiment of self-control. "In the supremacy of self-control," says Herbert Spencer, "consists one of the perfections of the ideal man."

It will not only keep back the hasty word and unkind, uncharitable speech, but will enable us to think calmly about everything. It will help us, too, in our thoughts and feelings. Oh, let us guard the citadel of the heart. "As a man thinketh in his heart, so is he." We are what we think, much more than perhaps what we imagine, and it is only by patience and self-control that true, heroic, beautiful, noble characters are formed. "There are words which sever hearts more than sharp swords." May we be kept watchful of our words.

There is very great power in a gentle voice, and often I think women do not properly value its influence. David said to the Lord, "Thy gentleness hath made me great." David was King of Israel, but he did not say this was the reason for his greatness. He was a brave soldier, a clever musician, and yet he said the gentleness of the Lord had made him great.

Good Books.

The importance of right reading is great. The mind, like the body, must have food. We cannot, of course, always advise what is best to read, because minds differ as faces differ. First of all, of course, there is the Bible. Then books of history, the biographies of the good, and noble, and a variety of reading to feed the mental and spiritual appetites. Judge the value of the book by the effect it has upon your mental and spiritual life. Do you feel braver to fight life's battles, wiser to meet its problems, for your reading? Do you feel stimulated and strengthened mentally, as you do physically, after you have partaken of material food? Do you feel inspired to prayer, and more self-denying endeavor for God after your reading? Do you find all that is best in you waking up, as a spring of water touched by an unseen hand? Or do you feel dissatisfied with your sphere in life?

Some people read too little. They say they have no time, are too tired, or cannot settle their minds to do so. But this is a mistake. Five or ten minutes properly assimilated thought enlarges the mental faculties. Half an hour, or even a few minutes' proper reading refreshes and rests the mind greatly, and one is able to go back to work strengthened because of it.

Concentration of the mind must be cultivated. Nothing can be done without concentration; it is very important in considering any subject. A few minutes spent in reading some bright, helpful spiritual subject, will relieve the tension, and send one back to the duty of the hour with a fresh buoyancy, stronger courage, and greater faith in God and His providences.

A Snap Shot—A Long List of Century Hustlers—Ashamed of the Name?—Nigger Again—A Hard Task.

The Editorial snapshotter is evidently in luck this week. See the accompanying picture of the back shed of Bro. Energiser's farmhouse, after he had returned from a long and wet tramp through the country roads with his bundle of Crys. Well, it's not a picture for the gods, but it's indicative of some faithful and persistent work, and as such let us not be guilty of levity. It would ill become us.

See the splendid list of century hustlers that graces the head of the Eastern and West North-West is also to be sold at least 100 each should achieve.

I am much pleased that Sergt. D——, of New Aberdeen, sells somewhere between 40 and 50 this week, but, oh, why be ashamed of the name? Can't we be let into the secret by some means or other?

With the Central back again to the head of the Ontario Provinces, we may be on the verge of an earthquake. Time was when we could not tell what a week would bring forth, and that was when "Nigger," the C. O. P. war horse, was feeling his oats. Oh, happy days!

The fortress of Port Toronto is again being besieged by the hustling batch of Cadets. I see that the sisters are away in the lead this week. Whether this will continue is more than I can say.

Yes, I am thinking it will be a hard task to dislodge Capt. Malsey from her position at the head of the W. O. P., and the leading hustler of the Territory. Still you never can tell till you get the news direct, so they say.

OUR MEDICAL COLUMN.

Emphysema.

The human lung may be compared, as already stated, in its general structure, to a honey-comb; it consists of elastic structure hollowed out so as to enclose numerous small cavities separated from one another by thin partitions, just as are the openings in the honey-comb. These little compartments in the lungs are called air cells. These openings are very minute, and open out from the small bronchial tubes; hence the bronchial tubes and air cells opening from it resemble a bunch of grapes, the tube corresponding to the stem of the bunch. Now, it happens under various circumstances that these air cells, which are merely little bags of elastic rubber-like tissues, become greatly stretched and finally enlarged, if the causes which produced this stretching continue to act, it often happens that the walls of this little bag give way, so that two or more adjacent cells become converted into one cavity. If this happens in many places throughout the lung, the result is that the breathing becomes impaired. For the partition walls between these cells are gone, it follows that there is less surface exposed to the air, entering the lungs than was formerly the case; the effect of breaking down these partitions is the same as would result if a portion of the lung were removed, and this condition may result eventually from any cause which interferes seriously with the exit of air from the cells; for with every act of breathing, these air-cells are distended with air during inspiration, and either collapse or fall together during expiration. Hence any impediments in the exit of the air interfere with this falling together of the cells, and may, if sufficiently long continued, result in permanent emphysema, or emphysema. A familiar example occurs in musicians who habitually perform upon brass wind instruments. For these individuals drive the wind from the lungs with considerable force against the obstacle, and frequently suffer from emphysema in consequence.

Symptoms.—Emphysema may, doubtless, exist to a considerable extent without attracting the patient's attention to the fact that something is wrong in the lung. But after a time it is indicated by labored breathing and shortness of breath, especially upon active exercise. The difficulty in breathing is quite characteristic, in that the expiration is long and labored. In fact, the natural proportion between drawing the air in and breathing it out—inspiration and expiration—is reversed. For in the natural condition of the lungs the act of inspiration is three or four times as long in duration as the following act of expiration; in cases of emphysema, however, the act of expiration becomes much longer than that of inspiration.

This disease may be developed at any time of life, and, indeed, seems to commence in many cases during infancy or childhood, though it rarely becomes troublesome, or, indeed, is noticed at all until middle life is attained. The disease appears to be hereditary.

In well-marked cases of emphysema the form of the chest is so characteristic that the experienced physician recognizes the disease at a glance; the upper part of the chest is barrel-shaped, not flattened from side to side, as is the natural condition; during inspiration, too, the chest sinks in at the lower part and above the breast bone, while the ribs and breast bone together rise as if they constituted one piece.

Treatment.—The treatment of emphysema must consist usually in the effort to cure the bronchitis, with which it is commonly associated; for when the latter difficulty is relieved, the patient exhibits but little annoyance from the emphysema, although the latter be continued undiminished. The measures already indicated as useful in bronchitis may, therefore, be employed in the treatment of this affection also.

OUR HISTORY CLASS.

IV.—The French.

Chapter XLV.—(Continued.)

The years 1847 and 1848 were unequal all over Europe. Much that had been settled at the Congress of Vienna, in 1814, after Napoleon had been overthrown, had been done more as if estates were being carved out than as if what was good for the people were considered; and there had been distress and discontent ever since, especially in Italy, where the north was under the Emperor of Austria, and the German officers were very rough and disagreeable in the towns where they were quartered.

The Italians rose, and tried to shake them off by the help of the King of Sardinia, and at the same time there was a great rising against the Pope IX. at Rome. The Popes had held Rome for more than a thousand years, and there ruled the Western Church; but they had never been very good princes to their Roman subjects, and things had fallen into a sad state of confusion, when, first he was chosen, Pius IX. had tried to improve; but people went on too fast for him, and at last rose up and so alarmed him that he fled in the disguise of a servant behind an Austrian carriage.

Now, the Roman Catholics think the Pope cannot rule over the Church freely unless he has Rome ruled of his own, and lives there as a prince, instead of only as a Bishop in a country belonging to some one else. And though there were so many in France who had not much faith in anything, yet there were so many honest, religious people, who were very anxious to have him back, and said that it mattered more that he should govern the church than that the Romans should be wiser. So a French army was sent to restore him; and the Italians were grievously disappointed, for the Austrians were putting them down in the north, and they thought Republicans better to help them. But Rome was taken, and the Pope had his throne again; and a strong guard of French soldiers were placed in Rome, for without such help he could no longer have reigned.

The French at home were in more parties than ever. The Red Republicans still wanted to overthrow everything; the Moderate ones cared chiefly to keep peace and order; the Bonapartists longed to have another Empire like Napoleon's; the Orleanists wished to bring back the Count of Paris, grandson of Louis Philippe; and the Legitimists still held fast to Henry V., the son of the murdered Duke of Berry, and the natural King by birth. Never was there such a house divided against itself; but, in truth, the real fear was of the Red Republicans. All the rest were ready to be quiet, and submit to anything so long as these could be kept down.

After much deliberating in the Assembly, it was settled to have a Republic, with a President, as the Americans have. Then Louis Napoleon Bonaparte, the son of Napoleon's brother Louis, offered himself as President, and was elected, all the quiet people and all the Bonapartists joining in the choice. Most of the army were Bonapartists, for the sake of the old victories of Napoleon; and when Algeria was quieted, and they came home, Louis Napoleon had a great power in his hands. Soon he persuaded the people to change his title from President to that of First Consul, as his uncle had once been called, and then everyone began to see what would follow, but most were glad to have a strong hand over them, to give a little peace and rest after all the changes.

And the next time there was any chance of a disturbance at Paris, Louis Napoleon was beforehand with the mob. He surrounded them with cannon, had cannon planted so as to command every street, and fired upon the mob before it had time to do any harm, then captured the ringleaders, and either had them executed or sent into banishment.

Some violence and cruelty there certainly was, but the Parisians were taught whom they must obey, and quiet people were grateful. This master stroke is always called the "coup d'état," or stroke of policy; for it settled matters for the time; and after it Louis Napoleon did as he chose, for no one durst resist him.

SONGS OF THE WEEK.

JOY IN THE SERVICE OF JESUS.

By F. Ashton, Peterboro.

Tune.—When the Trumpet Sounds (B.J. 46).

There is joy in the service of Jesus,
There are pleasures the world cannot give,
From all sin the Lord has redeemed us,
And we now for His glory live.
Our lives are filled with blessing,
As heavenward we are pressing,
And the blood our souls is cleansing,
From the very power of sin.

Chorus.

No, we never will give in.

Rest and peace we have found in Jesus,
And our hearts He has filled with His love,
From the fear of death He relieves us,
And He fits us to reign above.
Around us souls are dying,
To save them we are trying,
Very soon they will be lying
Where no mercy can come in.

Sinner, turn to the Loving Saviour,
He alone can release you from sin,
Do not stay till you may get better,
He is sure now to take you in.
Your soul He'll fill with gladness,
And chase away all sadness,
As the devil, in his madness,
Cries, "Another saved from sin."

I LOVE THEE.

Tune.—I Need Thee (N.B.B. 243).

2 I love Thee every hour,
Thou loving One;
Because Thou first loved me,
Thou suffering Son.

Chorus.

I love Thee, oh, I love Thee;
Love to love and serve Thee;
All I have, My Saviour,
I give to Thee.

I love Thee every hour,
And Thee alone;
My Love, my Life, my Lord,
My All-in-one.

I love Thee every hour,
To hear Thy voice,
And do Thy blessed will
Is all my choice.

I love Thee every hour,
And I am Thine;
And I have All-in-all,
For Thou art mine.

BE READY.

Tunes.—Judgment Day (N.B.B. 62); No Other Argument (N.B.B. 53).

5 Terrible thought! Shall I alone,
Who may be saved—shall I—
Or all, alas! whom I have known—
Through sin for ever die?

Chorus.

I'll for that awful day prepare,
Repent and turn to God;
His life He gave, He longs to save,
And wash me in His blood.

While all my old companions dear,
With whom I once did live,
Joyful at God's right hand appear,
A blessing to receive.

Shall I amidst a ghastly band,
Dragged to the judgment seat,
Far on the left with horror stand,
My fearful doom to meet?

Oh, the joy that lies under the cross,
The joy that lies under the cross,
Blest rapture divine, this treasure is mine,
The joy that lies under the cross.

How many there are who make shipwreck of faith,
Because the Lord's will they won't do;
How dreadful is the fate of death,
No Jesus to carry them through,
Full strength for your journey the Lord will provide:
Go forward; you'll suffer no loss;
And freely He'll give, as He walks by our side,
The joy that lies under the cross.

When Jesus was climbing up Calvary's hill,
And sank 'neath the weight of our load,
He didn't turn back, but pressed to the end,
And purchased our peace with His blood.

A mansion in Glory He's gone to prepare
For those who have counted the cost,
And as we press forward we daily do share
The joy that lies under the cross.

Then, comrades, go forward, be brave in the fight,
Don't falter, though sometimes 'tis hard,
But press boldly onward, stand up for the right.

And lean on the strength of our Lord
The battle is His; soon the victory will come.

And we over Jordan will cross;
Rejoice, as we march round
the throne,
Of the joy that lies under the cross.

I'm Going to be an Angel.

Words and Music by Evangeline Booth, Commissioner.

I'm going to heaven, oh, glory!
No surges dash those shores,
No feet made sore or weary
Tread on those golden floors.
I'm going to heaven, oh, glory!
No sorrow there is known,
The meaning of grief's mystery
Is told by Him alone.
I'm going to heaven, oh, glory!
Thine conflict crowned will be,
And seeming failures dreary
Will find their victory.

I'm going to heaven, oh, glory!
To sing the conquering grace,
With thousands of the Army,
I'll see Him face to face.

I'm going to heaven, oh, glory!
To see the martyr throne,
Whose ever-living memory
Has helped ten thousand on.
I'm going to heaven, oh, glory!
For strength to get made ready,
A crowd to meet me there.

Ah, no! I still may turn and live,
For still His wrath delays;
He now vouchsafes a kind reprieve,
And offers me His grace.

I will accept His offer now,
From every sin depart,
Perform my oft-repeated vow,
And render Him my heart.

GO FORWARD.

By A. J. Craig, Sergt.-Major, Midland, Ont.

Tune.—The Joy that Lies Under the Cross.

Or many who faint at the present-day strife,
My thoughts run to-day on the journey of life,

The path that we all have to tread,
Forgetting that victory's ahead,

It's not by the strong that the fight must be won,
But by those who're cleansed from all sin.

Who always look upward as forward they run,
For the joy that lies under the cross.

HASTEN HOME.

By Mrs. Scott Cowan, Palmerston, Ont.

Tune.—Ella Rhea.

4 O wanderer from the fold of God,
Why will you longer roam?
The Saviour waits so patiently
To welcome sinners home.

Chorus.

Oh, come away; oh, come away;
In sin no longer roam;
Your day of grace flies fast away,
Oh, haste, backslider, home.

What are earth's pleasures all to thee
If thou dost lose thy soul?
Then leave all doubts and fears behind,
And seek the shepherd's fold.

Christ will to you give peace and joy,
If you will seek His face,
And ever through eternity
You'll sing of wondrous grace.
